STANZAS.

BY AUGUSTUS SNODGRASS. Had I a friend with whom to share The gifts that changing Fortune brings The world to me might smile as fair As Childhood on its flut'ring wings.

But what are joys if we alone Away the fleeting hour must smile? They bring us pleasure of their own, But pain a moment brief beguile.

No! rather let my days pass round

In one unvaried scene of wo, Than feel the still worse poison'd wound, A friendless heart is doom'd to know. But vain-the Hermit seeks to find

A solitary cell to weep Away the troubles of the mind, And kill itself by sorrowing deep.

O, rather let me weep than smile, And see no answering smile around; Tears, like the ancient Prophet's oil, Make sacred, while they heal the wound.

I ask it not-for Friendship binds Its chains on willing hearts alone; If mine's the lot the friendless finds, Art thou not, Nature, yet mine own? Norwich, New-York.

From the Baltimore American

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. The completion of the Baltimore and Ohio Rail road to Cumberland has been accomplished some days earlier than was intimated previously. The route from this city to Hancock has been for some time open to travel. From the latter point to Cumberland, a distance of fifty-five miles, the road is just finished, and for the first time on Thursday the inhabitants of the wild regions of the Allegany beheld a train of cars drawn by a smoking locomotive among their hills. The rails are heavily laid, of the best iron, and after the most approved style of construction; and so well graded is the road, and so firmly settled, that the cars rolled smoothly onward at a velocity unusual even in railroad traveling. The entire distance from Baltimore to Cumberland, 178 miles, was performed, including stoppages, in ten hours; and upon the new pertions of the road the rate of speed was considerably beyond the average of the rate on that part of the road between the city and Harper's Ferry, which is constructed with a different

The route from Hancock to Cumberland pursues the margin of the Potomac river, with four exceptions. The first occurs at the Doe Gulley 18 miles above Hancock, where by a tunnel of 1200 feet in length a bend of the river is cut off, and a distance of nearly four miles saved. The second is at the Paw Paw Ridge, where a distance of nearly two miles is saved by a tunnel of 250 feet in length. The third and fourth are within six miles of Cumberland, where two bends are cut across by the route with a considerable lessening of distance. In advancing westward from Hancock the line passes along the Western base of Warm Spring Ridge, approaching within a couple of miles of the Berkeley Springs, which are as the eastern foot of that ridge. It thus sweeps around the termination of the Cacapon Mountain, opposite the remarkable and insulated eminence called the "Round Top." Thence the road proceeds to the crossing of the Great Cacapon river, nine and a half miles above Hancock, which is crossed by a bridge about 400 feet in length. Within the next mile it passes dam No. 6, the present termination of the finished part of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, and soon after, it enters the gap of Sideling Hill, that famous bugbear of the traveler, which on the National Turnpike opposes such a formidable barrier to his journey, but which here is unnoticed except in the fine profile which it exhibits on each side of the river, as it declines rapidly to the water level. In the gap of this mountain are the coal veins which R. Caton, Esq., with that zeal which has always distinguished his researches in this branch of practical geology, is endeavoring to turn to profitable account. The slack water of the Canal dam extends some two miles above Sideling Hill.

The next point of interest reached is the Tunne at the Doe Gallery. The approaches to this formidable work are very imposing, as for several miles above and below they cause the road to occupy a high level on the slopes of the river hills. and thus a fford an extensive view of the grand mountain scenery around. The Tunnel is, as before mentioned, about a quarter of a mile in length through a compact slate rock which is being arched with brick to preserve it from future disintegration by atmospheric action. The fronts or facades of the arch are of fine white sand-stone procured from the summit of the neighboring mountain. The work of arching is proceeding without interruption to the travel. The width of the opening within the brick work will be 21 feet and the hight 201, affording room for two tracks The hight of the hill above the roof of the Tunnel is 110 feet. The excavation and embankments adjacent are very heavy and consist of the slate rock through which the Tunnel is cut. Above this point the line pursues the very sinuous part of the river lying between Sideling Hill on the East and Fawn Hill on the West. The curves are not however abrupt, but form fine sweeping circuits, passing sometimes along beautiful alluvial bottoms and again at the feot of precipitous chiffs. The Paw Paw Ridge Tunnel was next reached, thirty miles from Hancock, and twenty-five miles below Cumberland. This Tunnel is through a soft slate rock, and is curved horizontally with a radius of 750 feet. It is of the same sectional dimensions with the Doe Gulley Tunnel, and is completely arched with brick and fronted with white sandstone. Thence the route reaches Little Cacapon Creek, 211 miles from Cumberland. At the mouth of this stream there are fine flats, and a beautiful view of the mountains to Eastward. The Viaduct over the Creek is 143 feet. About 54 miles further on, the South Branch of the Potomac was crossed on a Bridge 400 feet long. This is in fact the main Potomac, and would have been (as the story runs) so treated by the Commissioners who run the Boundary of Maryland and Virginia, but that the North Branch has the appearance, at the confluence, of being the larger stream. The river bottoms are here wide and exceedingly fertile and the scenery very beautiful. The arching of the strata in the section of the South Branch Mountain, just above the junction, is most remarkable and grand.

Some two miles above we passed by a fine straight line, over the widely expanded flats opposite the ancient village of Old Town, in Maryland. These are the finest bottom lands on the river, and from the upper end of them we obtained the first view of the Knobly Mountain, that remarkable range which lies in a line with the town of Cumberland, and is so singularly diversified by a profile which makes it appear like a succession of artificial mounds. Dan's Mountain towers over it, forming a fine back ground to the view. Soon after, the route passes the high cliffs known by the name of Keely's Rocks, where there has been very heavy excavation. Patterson's creek, eight miles from Cumberland, was next reached. Immediately below this stream is a lofty mural precipice of limestone and sandstone rock, singularly perforated in some of the ledges by openings which look like Gothic loop holes. The valley of this creek is very straight and bordered by beautiful flats. The viaduct over the stream is 150 feet long. Less than two miles above, and six miles from Cumberland, the North Branch of the Potomac is crossed by a viaduct 700 feet long, and rising in a succession of steps-embracing also a crossing of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal. This extensive Bridge carried us out of Virginia and landed us once more in old Maryland, which having left at Harper's Ferry, we kept out of it for a distance of 91 miles. The route thence to Cumberland is across two bends of the river, between which the stream of Evett's Creek is crossed by a viaduct of 100 feet span. The entrance to the town of Cumberland is beautiful, and displays the noble amphitheatre in which it lies to great advantage—the gap of Will's Mountain, through which the road is to wend its way Westward, being a justly prominent feature of the view. The Company's depot in Cumberland is in a central position at the intersection of the Railroad and National Turn-

PARR'S PILLS .-- From Mr. Noble,

Bookseller, Boston:

"Bosron, August 15, 1842.

"To the Proprietors of Parr's Life Pills: Gentlemen—Having heard of the extraordinary and unexpected cure of my friend Mr. Somerville, by the use of Parr's Life Pills, I applied to him for the particulars of his case, which he has kindly farnished. To his very lucid and striking statements (which I encl. se) I can add nothing: they speak for themselves. But I may observe that on his leaving Ling. themselves. But I may observe, that on his leaving Lin-coinshire it was the decided impression of all his friends, both in Boston and Stamford, where he is well known, that his recovery was entirely hopeless—in fact that he was just going home to die, his appearance every way indicating an advanced stage of consumption.

"Please to send me 100 dozen boxes of Parr's Pills, small, and 20 dozen large, as my stock is again low. I perceive my sale since last August has been 18,308 boxes! "Gentlemen, yours, faithfully. John Noble, "Wholesale and retail Agent, Boston."

From Mr. Peter Somerville, of Helensburgh, near Edin-burgh, addressed to Mr. John Noble, Bookseller, Boston

Lincolnshire:
"Spring Bank Cottage, Helensburgh, Aug. 18, 1342.
"My Dear Mr. Noble: Your kind letter I duly received, and would have answered it immediately, but for a circumstance I have delayed until new. I can assure you nothing gives me more pleasure than to bear witness to all and sun-dry, the real, and, I am now satisfied, the lasting good I have received from the use of rarr's Life Pills. Some of mylfriends observing the wonderful effects produced on me through them, urged me strongly to make my case known to encourage others afflicted with coughs, &c., to give them a trial; and I was glad to receive from you the same request, as you will be able to manage it for me. I am rather at a loss lest I should fail in giving full justice to the effi at a loss lest I should fail in giving but justice to the em-ciency of these Pills over all the medicines I have tried for my complaint, and you know I have now had nearly two years' trial of medical prescriptions for my cough and lia-bility to catch colds, without being one whit better, but I believe worse; and the last physician I consulted laughed at my ignorance when I asked him if there was nothing in physic that would operate as a preventive against taking physic that would operate as a preventive against taking cold. He shook his head and said 'No, no; there is no such medicine.' Now, if he had been acquainted with Parr's Life Pills, he would have said, 'Yes, yes; there is such a thing;' and instead of recommending snake-root and Iceland moss, he would have recommended them as an ef-Iceland moss, he would have recommended them as an effectual medicine for cough, pluerisy and spitting of blood, for that was the three-fold form of my complaint. The cough had become so troublesome that my sleep was broken by continued fits of coughing; my liability to cold and inflammation was so great that a change in the weather, or a walk, or any little exertion, would lay me up, and the usual routine of fasting, purging and blistering had to be resorted to. This I had four times in the course of two months, and then speaking aloud or reading aloud made me a great deal worse, and my strength was so lar gone that any little exertion in walking or working was quite sufficient for me. Now look at the change! Before I had taken two small boxes of the Pills, my strength was so far recovered that I seember was a large to the pills, my strength was so far recovered that I seember was a large to the pills, my strength was so far recovered that I seember was a large to the pills, my strength was so far recovered that I seember was a large to the pills of the pill ered that I commenced to work ten hours a day, and scarcely ever felt wearied, and have done so for these five scarcely ever lelt wearied, and have done so for these five weeks past; and then as to there being a preventive against cold, I may just mention that the place I went to work in was a school-house, just building; the roof was on it, but as yet there were none of the windows is it, and the draught was very great, more especially as I had never before wrought under such circumstances; yet I wrought, and am still working there without having taken c-ld that way.

"When I began to take Parr's Pills, I gave up at the same time the use of tea and coffee, which I believe belped me greatly in getting rid of my complaint. I am fully satisfied the use of tea, especially, is a very bad thing for a cough, as I always found my cough much worse after taking tea. The great good that I have derived from Parr's Pills may be summed up in a few words:

be summed up in a few words:

"First, they increased my strength; all other medicines had a weakening effect upon me but them. I take three, tour, and sometimes five pills every twenty-four hours, and instead of being weakened by them, they rather in their operation revive the animal spirits and impart lasting strength to the body.

"Secondly, they go direct to the court.

"Secondly, they go direct to the cough. I had not taken six Pills before I felt the cough shaking; its hold upon me became looser and looser every dose I took, and the first, or it may be the second Sunday after I had begun taking them, my friends were remarking to me the great and hap-py change in my cough, as during the meeting I had scarcely coughed any, while previous to taking them I used to be the great disturber of the meetings by my com-

"Thirdly, they healed the spitting of blood, and changed
"This was precompletely the nature of the expectoration. This was pre-viously so bad that the doctors agreed from this that my yiously so bad that the doctors agreed from this that my inngs were diseased; and the last advice I got from the doctor was, 'You must take great care of yourself, for your lungs are affected.' Now, whether my lungs are affected or not, I do not pretend to judge, but this I say, that by the use of Parr's Life Pills these two bad symptoms are re-

"Fourthly, they (Parr's Pilis) have restored my voice to its natural tone and strength. This all my friends were re-marking who heard me speak in the meeting the other day, and who previously had noticed the weakness of my voice.

"Fifthly, by the use of Parr's Pills my natural color is restored. Before taking them my eyes were languid and duil, my color was low and deathlike, so much so that a lady told me last week that when she saw me about three month told me last week that when she saw me about three months ago she really had little or no hopes of my recovery; whereas now my color is healthy, my eyes bright, and the same lady says I am now beginning to get flesh on my face, the cheeks of which were greatly sunk.

"My dear Mr. Noble, I am afraid you will be tired reading this long letter. Other particulars I might meetion, but will finish by expressing my heartfelt thanks to the Proprietors of Parr's Life Pulls, as to them under God I owe the greatest blessing but one—bodily health, the one blessing, which no medicine can bring, I trust you are continually enjoying—health to the soul, to be found only in the light of His countenance whose loving kindness is better ally enjoying—health to the soul, to be found only in the light of His countenance whose loving kindness is better than life. EAD THIS.—Having been afflicted for the last 10 or 12 years with a complication of diseases which confined me to my house and bed a great portion of the time, my stomach extremely weak and sore, vio lent pains in my side, my strength exhausted, and, in fact, reduced to such a degree that life seemed to be nearly extinct. I was invited by Dr. Starkweather, and by his advice commenced the use of his medicines—but was so weak and debilitated that I could take but half the usual dose of the Hepatic Elixir. I had taken so much medicine previously that I had no faith or confidence in any thing that bore the name of medicine. However, I continued the use of the tic Elixir, in half doses, for one week, when I began Hepatic Elixir, in half doses, for one week, when I began to feet its beneficial effects; I was then directed to increase the dose, which I found I could easily bear, and to the utter astonishment of myself and friends, I was soon able to leave my bed, and in a tew weeks was able to ride 30 miles in one day, which I could not have done before at any time in ten years past. I can now do my work about house, and feel perfectly well. I feel truly grateful to the Doctor, for his present believe the new of his Klivir has rescriptions, and sincerely believe the use of his Elixir has re-scored me to health, and I can do no less than to earnestly en-treat all who are suffering with bilious diseases to go and treat all who are suffering with billous diseases to go and do likewise, and they may rest assured that they will de rive as much benefit irom it as I have done. I believe Dr Starkweather's Hepatic Elixer to be a truly valuable medicine.

A FFECTIONS OF THE LIVER.—

a restoration to health.—I venture to affirm, says an entinent writer, that the grandsource of health and disease is connected with the natural or disordered function of the liver, the state of the same of and that every chronic or lingering illness arises from some defect there. Ckronic Hepatitis the most frequent form of the diseas- in this country, is slow in its progressive stages. The ergan of attack will be for years suffering under its underergan of attack with or lot years state in daken is unan-mining influence, and yet no real disease will indicate to the patient the alarming state under which he is laboring; any transient indisposition he imputes to a different cause, never suspecting that the liver being affected is the latent source of these disturbed sensations; thus misled, it is not in his power to take the necessary precautions to guard against this insidious enemy to his repose. The symptoms of this disease are often slight and felt for a considerable time, such as fulness after meals, accompanied by oppression, a feeling of vacuity at the pit of the stomach, the mind be-comes irritable, memory defective, incapacity for mental exertion prevails, the appetite becomes variable, tongue furred, month clammy, taste vitiated, slight noise causes a start, sleep disturbed with frightful dreams, occasionally an b use pain in the right side, extending to the top of the ulder, cramp or spasms is often experienced, and nerv twitching of the muscles and aching pain of the limb ten appears in the form of cough, ashthma, &c. as diseased ten appears in the form of cough, ashims, a. a.c. as diseased state of the liver, either by sympathy or pressure induces a derangement of the functions of the lungs and occasions these disorders. By changing the morbid state of the liver, the irritation of the lungs immediately gives way. The liver is indeed connection, primarily or secondarily or effect, with various diseases of the head as well as other parts of the system.

From these views, then, there can be no doubt that the disorders of the liver are of the first importance, and every effort used to remedy them should be conducted on rational principles, and by timely and efficient attention and the use of the most proper medicines, many very serious conse-quences may be prevented, which too often are entailed on constitution by procrastination.

As a remedy peculiarly adapted to the cure of liver affections, Dr. Starkweather's Hepatic Elixir has proved to be the most potent and efficacious, and every day's experience confirms more positively this assertion. It is candidly be-lieved that no preparation has ever been before the public that has met with such unexampled approbation from dis-tinguished sources, distinguished judges, and grateful pa-tients as this medicine, and a greater amount of suffering has been mitigated and more cures permanently effected by it than any other medicine extant

So confident is the proprietor of its curative properties in every case, that when the medicine is used according to his directions and the patient is not satisfied or convinced, after using one bottle, that it has produced a beneficial effect, his agents are authorised to refund the money paid for it on reagents are authorised to retund the money paid for it on actum of the empty bottle.

They have for years stood unrivalled as regards their utility and economy, and the decision of the Judges, as well as the instreaming demand for the article, is confirmation arrong of their superiority at the present time over any other as the insreasing demand for the article, is confirmation strong of their superiority at the present time over any other Stove before the public. Our patterns are rich and varied, commanding the admiration of all observers. Our style for private houses is an ornament to the hall as well as a most useful appendage. An entire house of any sige can be thoroughly warmed by a siagle Stove, without recourse at all to the parlor grates during the winter.

We have also been able to complete a few of "SHEPARD's PATENT REVERBERATERS," for parlors, with which the public can now be served without delay. This Stove has also taken the first premium of the American Institute as the best Stove for parlors and offices exhibited at the Fair, although the competition was greater than on any previous though the competition was greater than on any previous occasion. Their construction is extremely simple, and their efficiency and economy undeniable. We have only to ask the attention of those purchasing Stoves to them and we are confident that they will be pleased. SHEPARD & CO. 029 Im Nott's Stove Warehouse, 242 Water-st.

GREAT ATTRACTION.—The sub-business at 250 Water-street, and the original Agent for vending and selling Professor Orr's Patent Artificit State vending and selling Professor Orr's Faient Alf-tight Slove in this City,) would respectfully inform the public that he has taken the store No. 231 Water-street, two doors from Beekman, where may be found a complete assortment of the above Stoves, new style, and at reduced prices. Over the above Stoves, new style, and at reduced prices. Over Five Thousand of these Stoves were sold in the City of Boston last season, and found to be the most economical in the censumption of fuel of any Stove heretofore introduced. They are recommended particularly by Physicians, for heating rooms for the sick; and persons afflicted with consumption have found great relief by the use of this Stove, he air produced being of more even temperature than can possibly be produced by any other Stove now offered to the public. Also, Wilcox's Air-tight Stove for wood—a beautiful article together with Badger's Patent Air-tight coal for yourselves before purchasing elsewhere. Recollect the number. D. D. IMPORTANT INVENTION .- Fisk's PATENT NOVELTY COOK STOVE .- This Stove combines all the advantages of cooking in every variety, without the usual objections to all other kinds of cooking aparatus. The top is divided by patent plates into from 4 to 1 boiling place; when used with one boiler, which measures 40 gallons, it is useful for bathing purposes, large measures 40 gallons, it is useful for batking purposes, large washing, steaming, vegetables, scalding hogs, &c.; it is also fitted to take on a 2 bbl. caldron, all of which add to its simplicity in every respect. The oven is perfect as a brick oven, and is warranted in all cases to suit the purchaser or the money will be refunded. To those who have seen them in use, an explanation is unnecessary, and they only require to be examined to convince any one of their perfect simplicity and incomparable advantages. Several dealers have sold their Stoves, representing them to be the Novelty Stoves, and to avoid further imposition, they will be sold in future at the manufacturer's establishment, 209 Water-street, only, where reference will be given to over eight hundred persons who have them in use in this city. All other kinds of Stoves at reduced prices. FISK'S Stove Establishment, 209 Water-st.
